brings disappointment as a rule, so don't reckon without the horse, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," and that's what a horse is. No matter how ugly he seems to some, he is a joy to others, for he helps to fill the dinner pail. Without the horse you cannot farm. Should your horse need medical or surgical treatment call on DR. HUDSON. He has the largest veterinary practice in Adams County. Why? Because he has a thorough knowledge of his profession, practical experience. It requires no argument to prove this. It's True.

CHEMICALS STOP COLLEGE FIRE

Good Start Gotten by Flames in Preparatory Department Building
when Chemical Tanks are Used.
Company's Services not Needed.

Fire in the Preparatory Department of Gettysburg College was discovered shortly before one o'clock this afternoon and by the timely and effective use of chemicals and other extinguishers was put out before it could gain sufficient headway to do a great deal of damage. The origin of the blaze is unknown. It started in the room occupied by Sterling Longsdorf and Sewel Kapp, of Biglerville.

Before it could be extinguished the fire had eaten through one floor into the room below and was blazing rapidly, the flames and smoke damaging woodwork and furnishings to a considerable extent.

When discovered the fire was consuming the woodwork about the window in the third floor corner room where it had its origin. Flames were blazing along the ceiling in the room below and matters looked threatening. The heat in the room was intense and it was with difficulty that the chemical tanks in the building were carried close enough to be of any effect.

Students and others however got to the place at last and then short work was made.

The fire looked so threatening at first that an alarm was turned in and in a few minutes the apparatus was on the way to the north end of town. It was recalled before it had gone many squares, however, and the company's services were not required.

CLAYBAUGH HELD FOR APRIL COURT

Milton Claybaugh Arrested and Given Hearing on Charge of Larceny of Lee Tipton's Chickens. Accomplice Turns State's Evidence.

Milton Claybaugh was arrested on Thursday evening by Constable Shealer, charged with the theft of fifteen chickens from the property of R. Lee Tipton on East Middle street Wednesday night. He was held by Squire Harnish at a hearing for April Court in $500 bail. The case against Claybaugh rests largely on the testimony of Harry C. Thompson who claims the man forced him to accompany him on the chicken stealing expeditions and who turned state's evidence, revealing the entire story of Wednesday night's operations.

Claybaugh, it will be remembered, recently served a term in the eastern penitentiary on a forgery charge, after having failed in an attempt to escape from the Adams County jail. He had gotten to the jail wall under cover of night and was about to drop from a blanket rope when it tore and he was thrown heavily to the alley below, sustaining a broken leg. He crawled several hundred yards to the rear of the old Reformed Cemetery and lay there until morning when he was found by Sheriff Colestock.

At the hearing before Squire Harnish on Thursday evening Mrs. Lee Tipton told of finding six of her chickens in the yard of Claybaugh on Thursday morning identifying them by the absence of the portion of a toe nail on the right foot. Claybaugh made no effort to prevent her taking the chickens home, telling her that if they were her property she could have them.

Harry Thompson said that on Wednesday evening Claybaugh got him drunk and hit him, forcing him to go along on the expedition. They went first according to the testimony, to Tipton's and Claybaugh placed Thompson on guard outside while he went within to get the chickens. Two bags were used and on the way to Claybaugh's home a half square distant each carried one of the receptacles. There was more drinking and then a further expedition Thompson said that Claybaugh warned him that he would get a good beating if he gave any alarm. It is supposed that the second place visited was the henery of Truman Beard. The first theft was committed between seven and eight o'clock.

Sheriff Fissel was called and told of having found five live and eleven dressed chickens at Claybaugh's home on Thursday.

Miss Carrie Young, who lives next door to Claybaugh, said that all night Wednesday she and her sister were disturbed by chickens making a racket and people walking up and down the boardwalk. She said, too, that as a rule there were only four or five chickens at the Claybaugh home.

John Shultz testified that he had bought four chickens from Claybaugh between seven and eight o'clock Wednesday night. E. S. Faber said that he had purchased two between half past six and seven and that Mrs. Tipton had identified them as her property. Lee Tipton told of identifying chickens at Shultz's and Faber's.

Miss Mary Young corroborated the story of her sister about the noise at the Claybaugh home and in addition remarked that it "was not the first time she had heard chickens yell at Claybaugh's."

George J. Benner represented the prisoner who was held for trial at April Court.

Truman Beard has laid information charging Claybaugh with the larceny of twenty-one chickens from his premises and a hearing on this charge will be held.

TO REPEAT GOOD SHOW

"The Arrival of Kitty" at Walter's Thursday evening was voted the funniest play that has visited Gettysburg since "What Happened to Jones" held forth in Xavier Hall a number of years ago. A small audience enjoyed the play immensely and will doubtless give it such a good recommendation that it will be met with a full house tonight as Manager Walter has secured the attraction for a second performance this evening. This was made possible by the fact that the advance agent made a mistake in the bookings and an open date was the result. "The Arrival of Kitty" is a farce of the best sort and a capable company is handling it.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT COLLEGE PLAY

"The Rivals," Old English Comedy,
Given by Sophomore Class with Elaborate Stage Settings and Pretty Costumes.

A large audience greeted the Sophomore Players in Brna Chapel on Thursday evening when they presented the old English comedy "The Rivals" by Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

The play was elaborately and attractively staged, much of the scenery having been secured from Ford's Theatre, Baltimore. The costumes were in keeping and the interpretation of the lines most satisfactory. It was one of the most ambitious attempts in theatricals ever made by the local college students and all who took part deserve a great deal of praise and commendation for their work. Prof. Moser directed the rehearsals for the play.

The College Orchestra furnished an attractive musical program during the evening and the affair was one of the best things which the institution has produced for some time. The cast:

DWELLING BURNS

The two story log dwelling house of Jesse Flohr along the Western Maryland Railroad, east of Blue Ridge Summit, was destroyed by fire together with nearly all its contents in a night fire.

The fire was caused by a coal oil lamp that Mrs. Flohr was carrying exploding in an upstairs room and setting fire to the bed clothing.

Mr. Flohr was home at the time and with the aid of neighbors saved a buffet, table, sewing machine and some dishes. The house was burned entirely to the ground.

Mrs. Flohr was badly frightened and force had to be used to keep her from entering the building. She was badly burned about six years ago in attempting to save her child, whose clothes caught fire from a stove. The child was burned to death and Mrs. Flohr was so badly burned that she was in a serious condition for several weeks.

The loss will be about one thousand dollars, covered by insurance.

Richmond, Ind., March 3. — Jesse Seaver, aged twenty years, a former theological student, arrested at Lima, O., and brought to Richmond to answer to a charge of passing a forged check on Earlham college, was sentenced to the state reformatory for from two to fourteen years. He pleaded guilty.

Seaver said he was prompted to use fraudulent methods to obtain the funds in order to pursue religious studies. He told the court he had obtained about $600 from various colleges during the last few months, and he had with him a complete record of his transactions.

Seaver also said he had appealed recently to Andrew Carnegie to assist him in order that he might pay back moneys he had obtained unlawfully.

QUEEN'S ATTENDANT SLAIN

Italian Officer Strangles Young and Beautiful Princess.

Rome, March 3.—Princess di Triglona, a young and beautiful lady-in-waiting to Queen Helena, was murdered at a small hotel in this city by Lieutenant Paterno, an officer in the Italian cavalry.

The tragedy has created a sensation. The causes of the murder and the details of the story that led up to it are thus far unknown or suppressed. The authorities, however, state that the lieutenant strangled the princess and then shot her.

The ladies-in-waiting to Queen Helena include Countess Giulia Triglona, who unquestionably is the woman murdered. This is the only lady-in-waiting of the name of Triglona. The gentlemen-in-waiting to the queen include Count Romualdo Triglona del Principi di Saintella.

MONEY DEGRADES WEDLOCK

"Lack of It Forces Many Women Into Loveless Marriage"—Zueblin.

Chicago, March 3.—Money, not the possession of it, but its lack, is responsible for the degradation of the millions of women who must marry men whom they do not love.

Lack of economic independence has compelled women to place this stigma upon their sex.

These were the conclusions of Professor Charles Zueblin in a lecture on "The Family." He advanced a new reason for the existence of "the unwritten law." He said that it was due to the fact that a woman with "a million dollar personality" found herself dependent upon a "thousand dollar masculine income."

"It is a painful fact that unless a man and woman love each other or are sacrificing themselves for the sake of their children they have no right to live together," he said. "Yet there are millions who do and must."

REFORM FORCES WIN DEMOCRACY

Reorganization Report Adopted by State Committee.

GUFFEY DEPOSED AS LEADER

Reform Committee of Seven Will Have Charge of Reorganization.
Dewalt to Go.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 3.—The regulars on the Democratic state central committee went down to defeat on the proposition to reorganize the party in this state before the forces led by Vance McCormick.

There was a full attendance of the committee, there being but five absentees out of a total of eighty-five. The result of the meeting was a surprise in that the regulars were confident and hilarious and took advantage of every opportunity to jeer the apparently small delegation which surrounded McCormick and Palmer. Their reorganization plan, however, was carried through by a vote of 40 to 39.

This action means the end of Colonel Guffey's leadership and places the reorganization in the hands of a committee of seven, to be named later, which is to have power to depose the state chairman and national committeemen from Pennsylvania and select men in their places. The committee is to report in fifteen days and its findings are to be binding.

This action, which will result in a complete change of leadership, was the surprising climax of a day replete with stirring events.

Dewalt Promises Fairness.

In opening the meeting, Chairman Arthur G. Dewalt told the insurgents, as they were termed, that they must not misconstrue the attitude he would probably take, since he was bound by parliamentary rules, but assured them that everything would be done to bring about a spirit of amity and fairness.

The meeting was called for the purpose of hearing the report of a committee, of which Vance C. McCormick was at the head, to consider plans for the rehabilitation of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania.

The prize at stake was the control of the Democratic organization in Pennsylvania and the control of the state's delegation at the Democratic national convention in 1912.

Congressman Mitchell Palmer, of Monroe; Vance McCormick, of Harrisburg; former Mayor Guthrie, of Pittsburg; and Joseph P. McCullen led in the efforts to unseat the Democratic national committeemen, James M. Guffey, and the state chairman, Arthur G. Dewalt, of Lehigh.

Ranked with the McCormick faction are a majority of the Democratic congressmen-elect in the state, who were elected on the Keystone reform wave in November.

The "stalwarts" under the leadership of Colonel James M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, and Thomas J. Ryan and Charles P. Donnelly, of Philadelphia, presented one plan of reorganization and the Palmer-McCormick wing another. Each offer was so made as to insure a victory to its authors, and a discussion that was at times acrimonious resulted.

The reorganization proposition submitted by Vance McCormick and adopted is for a committee of seven members, chosen as follows:

Three by the chairman of the Democratic state central committee, three by the McCormick committee and one by the nine Democratic congressmen-elect in the state, at whose suggestion McCormick and his associates made the demand for the meeting.

HOUSE PASSES EXPRESS TAX

Measure Expected to Bring In More Than $220,000 Revenue.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 3. — The house cleared a long second reading calendar, in the course of which it sent back to the judiciary general committee the bill to make it a misdemeanor for any person to wilfully exaggerate the value of shares of stock or property of a corporation.

The bill requiring reports to the state board of charities of all foreign-born, unnaturalized persons in public institutions was killed.

The bill to tax express companies was passed finally by 172 to 0, after a speech in its favor by Mr. Hecht, of Philadelphia, who stated that it would bring between $220,000 and $240,000 annually into the state treasury, whereas less than $20,000 is now received.

The Morris electrocution bill was recommended to the appropriation committee.

The amendments to the Schuylkill county poor district bill were agreed to.

Bills passed finally included these: Exempting from collateral inheritance tax bequests to charitable institutions which do not receive state aid. Permitting certificates of association and articles of incorporation to be sworn to before a justice of the peace.

Validating increases of debt where corporate authorities did not signify desire for debt increase by ordinance or vote prior to popular election.

FINGER WORTH $2750,
LEG $8000, SAY JURY

Value Placed on Limbs in New York Courts.

New York, March 3.—Miss Mary L. Geary's fingers are worth $2750 each, according to a jury in the supreme court, which awarded her that sum for each of the two which were crushed while she was working in a Harlem rug manufactory.

On that basis Miss Geary is worth much more than her weight in gold, for she tips the scales at only 115 pounds. Some time ago while at work she tried to pick an obstruction out of a machine while it was running, and two fingers of her right hand were crushed so badly that they had to be amputated. She sued for $10,000, and after two juries had disagreed a third one found for her.

A jury in the supreme court in Minneola awarded $8000 to William Blaisdell, an actor, as damages for an attack made upon him by an employee of the Long Island Railroad company, alleging that his ability as a "song and dance" artist was forever gone, his leg being permanently crippled by the attack.

CAUGHT FOX WITH WHIP

Lash Wound Itself Around Animal's Neck and Held Fast.

Tarrytown, N. Y., March 3.—There are many ways of catching a fox, but the way Abel Weeks captured one while on his way from Glenville was novel.

Weeks is an old fox hunter and has killed many in his day. As he was driving along the road he was astonished to see a big red fox jump out from behind some bushes and dash up the road.

Weeks cracked the whip over his horse and went galloping after. As he overtook the fox he snapped his whip and the long lash wound itself around the fox's neck twice and tied itself into a knot, holding fast. Weeks stopped his horse and jumped out, killing the fox. Then he drove into town and went to police headquarters, where he made out a sworn statement.

EXTRA SESSION IS NOW SURE

Taft Will Reconvene Congress
Before April 4.

HALE HOLDS UP MEASURES

Dares President to Push Reciprocity
Bill Through and Threatens to Kill
His Pet Measure.

Washington, March 3.—The last vestige of doubt that there will be an extra session of congress called by President Taft to consider the Canadian reciprocity agreement in the now practically certain event of the failure of that measure in the present congress, disappeared when it became known that the republican leaders had been called to the White House for consultation.

"The die is cast," said one of the republican senators. "Mr. Taft has decided that there must be an extra session and that he will call it earlier than April 4."

With only a few hours of life remaining for this congress, the president is declaring the senate must pass the reciprocity bill, or there will be an extra session.

Hale declares that if a republican president thinks it good politics to ask a Democratic congress to give him Canadian reciprocity, then it will be equally good politics for him to get appropriations for fortifying the Panama canal and for carrying out other Taft projects from the same source.

The Maine veteran, it now seems, can be defeated only through physical weakness on his part to prevent the passage of the appropriation bills. He is playing his game of holding up the supply bills to such a thin point that there are those who shiver when they think of the narrow margin by which he will win if he decides to allow the supply bills to go through.

He will allow them to go through only when he is certain he can beat the McCall bill on a direct vote, or when President Taft has decided, if he ever does so decide, that he prefers to have money for his canal work and for the other important projects he has on hand rather than Canadian reciprocity and money for those projects at the hands of a Democratic house and a hostile senate.

President Taft admitted that he is worried by the situation as framed up by the Maine legislator. Defeat of the sundry civil bill, in which an allowance of $3,000,000 for the canal forts is carried, creates a presumption that William Howard Taft will not be able to carry out his plan of fortifying the canal unless the people of the country give him another term in the White House.

Canal Forts at Stake.

A majority of the Democrats in the house, including the leaders, voted against an allowance for forts. There is no reason to suspect any recession from that position by the Democratic house to which the president will have to submit his proposal in the event that he insists upon reciprocity and Hale has the physical strength to prevent the passage of the sundry civil bill in this session.

The Democrats in the present house opposed the two battleship program, and there is no reason to believe they would do any differently in the event they were called into extra session to make good the loss coming to the administration through its insistence upon reciprocity.

Action on the Lorimer resolution, though expected to cause an uproar throughout the country and a fierce denunciation of the old guard that came to the assistance of the Illinois ward politician, simplified the matter of an extra session to the extent that it put a force back of the tariff board legislation desired by the president, and at the same time made the combination against reciprocity stronger.

On those two matters the Republicans of the old guard and the insurgents at heart are as one. There was rejoicing in both wings of the Republican party when it became known that the Hale plan to defeat the sundry civil and naval appropriation bills was causing worry at the White House.

There is no doubt about the accuracy of the assertion that William Howard Taft is in deeper hot water than any predecessor of his ever was.

New York, March 3.—The Dowager Lady Decies, the mother of Lord Decies, who married Miss Vivien Gould, sailed for home aboard the Hamburg-American liner Amerika.

She was accompanied by her grand son, Marcus Beresford, who is ten years old and hopes to be an admiral some day.

Lady Decies said that unfortunately she had been ill with a heavy cold during most of her stay and that this had interfered with her enjoyment of the visit. She found Washington very attractive, she said, and enjoyed her visit to the capital very much when not laid up with the grip.

SAY PRISON BREEDS
DISEASE AND MANIACS

Inspector Favors Moving Them to Forest Preserves.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 3.—The western penitentiary came in for another period of condemnation when the senate appropriations committee paid it a visit.

"Under the law only 35 per cent of the prisoners can be employed," said Chairman Charles H. Kline. "The remaining 65 per cent must be kept in their cells. From idleness they contract tuberculosis, as they do not get sufficient exercise to throw off the disease. Others become degenerates, and we saw men there who had actually become maniacs from confinement."

Senator Kline believes the state should move the penitentiary to one of its forest preserves in the western section.

Senator Wibert, chairman of the sub-committee and in charge of the inspection, said the state legislators against sweatshops, yet it maintained such institutions in the penitentiary. He favors the purchase of land if the forest preserves are found unsuitable.

The committee is in Pittsburg to inspect the sixty-six institutions asking state aid.

MONTANA ELECTS SENATOR

Helena, Mont., March 3.—Henry L. Myers, judge of the district court of Ravalli county, was elected United States senator to succeed Thomas H. Carter.

The election came on the twenty-seventh ballot, and his name had not been mentioned until that time. When it was suggested by the western Montana delegates soon after others began to change and before the vote was announced every Democrat had cast his vote for the new senator.

500 FAMINE RAIDERS BURN

Punishment of Starving Horde in District of China.

CAUSED REIGN OF TERROR

Terrible Story of Revenge Taken by Desperate Villagers in the Famine Stricken Area.

Victoria, B. C., March 3.—Rendered desperate by hunger, bands of hundreds of starving refugees are roving through the famine-stricken area of China plundering and killing, and a reign of terror prevails, according to persons who arrived here on the Tamba Maru, which reached port from the Orient.

In some instances these raiders met with desperate resistance. From Kunshan, a walled village within fifty miles of Shanghai, comes a terrible story of the fate that overtook one of these plundering bands.

This band, which numbered more than 500 persons, surprised the people of Kunshan and looted the stores of everything eatable, killing or wounding all who resisted.

Many of the villagers were slain and others taken prisoners to be held for ransom.

When the raiders left Kunshan to move on to plunder another village, the natives of the place rallied, held a council of war and decided on revenge. They got together every available man, armed themselves and set out in pursuit.

They came up with their depolers in a small village, which they surrounded. The gates were then locked and the houses set on fire.

The raiders brought five prisoners into the compound in view of the besiegers and threatened to kill them unless the siege was raised.

On the Kunshan villagers pressing them back to the burning buildings, they slowly hacked the five men to death.

Three other prisoners were tied to stakes in the burning building and perished with their captors.

The known deaths from the plague in China number 30,000, and, according to the official statistics, the death rate averages 200 daily. But the officials have little knowledge of the conditions in the interior, or if they have, they are not permitting the facts to be known. There are few or no foreigners in the interior, and conditions there for this reason are not attracting much public attention.

It is impossible even to estimate the number of deaths that have resulted from lack of food. Dr. Samuel Cochran, an American, who is engaged in the work of relief, writes:

"One million people will die before the first crop is harvested. This will be scanty, because the people have not the strength to till the soil and no animals remain for plowing."

In 1907 he was tried for murder, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He escaped pending a motion for a new trial.

Stripling confessed his identity when requisition papers were read to him.

AN ANTI-ELOPEMENT BILL

Delaware Solons to Consider Legislation to Discourage "Runaways."

Wilmington, Del., March 3.—A bill has been introduced in the legislature designed to discourage runaway marriages in this state.

The bill provides that a minister shall not marry a person under the age of twenty-one years without the consent in person of parent or guardian prior to or at the time of the marriage.

The fine for violation is to be $500 to $1000.

Pinchot Denounces Amendments.

Washington, March 3.—In an address before the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' association here Gifford Pinchot, former United States forester, denounced two amendments to the agricultural appropriation bill, now in conference, one of which, he said, would absolutely destroy the national forests and the other would allow fraudulent mining claims in forest reserves.

687 Sold the First Day

Reserve Your Hudson Now

The first days' sales made to individuals by Hudson dealers—on the day when the new HUDSON "33", arrived—totaled 687 cars.

Howard E. Coffin is known for the successes he has produced wherever automobiles are used. The four famous cars he designed where the leaders of their time. At first he designed high-priced cars. Then he turned his attention to building a car that would give the same satisfactory service—that has the same grace and beauty and fine quality of materials, workmanship and finish that had been expected only of those selling at $2,000 and up.

The HUDSON "33" is his masterpiece.

Desirable cars are difficult to obtain when they are wanted.

You who wait until spring comes will surely find this condition. The most desirable cars will be sold far in advance.

If you intend buying a car, begin your investigation at once and assure yourself of delivery when you want it. There will be no change in models or price. Even cars that ordinarily have small demands, will be in large demand in spring.

By taking your car now you can get three months' extra use without extra cost.

Simplicity the Keynote

Simplicity is evident in every detail.

The number of parts used is 900 less than in the average car.

I have in my store the "33" Touring Car where I will be pleased to demonstrate it to prospective buyers.
